THE NEW CRYOSPA MINI

Hudson Aquatic Systems is now offering CET CryoSpas cold water therapy recovery products that support faster recovery, help reduce fatigue, improve performance, and minimize the risk of injuries in athletes.

Benefits:

- uses the benefits of cold salt water therapy by transferring the "colder than ice" feel to the affected areas better than ice, to give you a faster recovery from soft tissue injuries and shorter recovery time post exercise
- used by athletes and sports teams to treat muscle and joint soreness or strain
- an affordable option for recovery without the expense of purchasing ice and maintains consistent temperature control
- sanitary environment - does not require constant cleaning
- relies on four main factors to achieve the greatest therapeutic effect; turbulence, temperature, pressure and salinity

Features:

- chills to as low as 41°F (5°C) in just minutes
- includes 4 massage jets
- high salt concentration
- built-in chiller and pump
- compact design for easy transportation

The CryoSpa Mini is one of the newest cryotherapy products on the market. This mini spa was designed and manufactured to help prevent pitcher's elbow, tennis elbow, golfer's elbow, etc. This compact design, meant for lower arm therapy, includes a built-in chiller with a digital temperature controller. Combined with massage jets, the Mini CryoSpa provides the most intense chilling and accelerated recovery for the lower arm in a sanitary environment.

"By offering CET CryoSpas salt water bath products, Hudson is able to target customers who treat athletes and sports teams with the exact aquatic therapy rehab, training, conditioning and performance results they need," said George Hunter, president of Hudson Aquatic Systems. "We are always looking for product improvements or partnerships to bring to market that can save our customers time and money while giving their patients a better, healthier and faster outcome."
